Changes to the Minimum Property Standards

AGENCY: Office of the Assistant Secretary for Housing—Federal Housing Commissioner, HUD.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This final rule amends the Minimum Property Standards (MPS) by removing federal agency standards for thermal insulation, and referencing a model energy code; standardizing requirements to control termites and wood decay, and referencing the latest editions of private sector standards now in the MPS; adding requirements for the restriction of the use of fire retardant treated plywood; and revising the time for periodic changes to the MPS, and making changes of an editorial nature. These changes to the MPS are needed to keep referenced standards current, to eliminate unnecessarily duplicative and confusing federal standards, and to protect the Department's insurance fund.

DATES: Effective Date: This regulation is effective December 15, 1993.

The incorporation by reference of certain publications listed in the regulations is approved by the Director of the Federal Register as of December 15, 1993.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Donald Fairman, Manufactured Housing and Regulatory Functions, Standards and Products Branch, Department of Housing and Urban Development, room 3214, L'Enfant Plaza, 490 E, 451 Seventh Street, SW., Mail Room B-133, Washington, DC 20410-8000, telephone, voice: (202) 755-7440; (TDD) (202) 708-4594. (These are not toll-free numbers.)

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On November 5, 1990 the Department published in the Federal Register a proposed rule (55 FR 46632) to amend the Minimum Property Standards (MPS) in 24 CFR part 200, subpart S by:

- (1) Removing federal agency standards for thermal insulation, referencing a model agency code;
- (2) Standardizing requirements to control termites and wood decay;
- (3) Referencing the latest editions of private sector standards now in the MPS;

(4) Adding requirements for the restriction of the use of fire retardant treated plywood; and

(5) Revising the time for periodic changes to the MPS and making changes of an editorial nature.

Seventeen public comments were received on the proposed rule. Fifteen of the comments dealt with HUD's proposal to adopt the Council of American Building Officials' (CABO) Model Energy Code (MEC) in lieu of the energy requirements in the current MPS. Eleven were in favor of the adoption and four were opposed.

One commenter opposed adoption of the MEC on the basis that the commenter did not view the 1992 MEC as being cost effective for homes that use natural gas. The commenter urged HUD to continue to use the current standard, and claimed that the proposed rule would encourage the use of electric resistance heating. The commenter contended that the efficiency of gas is almost three times that of electric resistance as a heat source, and that natural gas produces lower levels of carbon dioxide emissions.

Other commenters recommended that HUD use two standards of the American Society of Heating, Refrigerating, and Air-Conditioning Engineers (ASHRAE): ASHRAE/IES Standard 90.1-1989 Energy Efficient Design of New Buildings Except Low-Rise Residential Buildings and ASHRAE Standard 90.2 P-Energy Efficient Design of New Low-Rise Residential Buildings. These suggestions were supported by the commenter's data, which will be considered in future Department of Energy and HUD energy studies.

A commenter contended that the use of the MEC for low-rise residential construction would have all the impact associated with a major rule, and homeowners would not "break even" on MEC-mandated energy efficient investments for up to twelve years.

Regarding the contention that adoption of the MEC for low-rise residential construction has the impact of a major rule, there are a number of factors to consider. The basic yardstick for identification of a major rule is an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more. HUD's current calculations indicate costs far below the $100 million threshold. Over the past several years, construction starts for single family homes have been close to one hundred thousand per year. Any change in construction would be associated with a portion of homes with gas heat—which comprise approximately sixty percent of HUD single family home construction. (Requirements for electric resistance heating are equivalent in the MPS and the MEC.) Preliminary estimates indicate the average per unit cost for changing from MPS to MEC thermal criteria would be $1000. This would result in a total construction cost of $60 million. This amount would be further diminished by the number of homes already being constructed to the thermal requirements of the MEC, which is the case in a number of localities where either the MEC or more stringent local requirements already have been adopted. (Where local codes treat the same subject as the MPS, the more stringent local code prevails.) Another important consideration affecting the major rule determination is the net impact of the MEC. The net impact of adoption of the MEC will be energy and life-cycle cost savings. The present value of future reductions in fuel costs significantly exceeds the front-end costs for the energy conservation measures.

One commenter supported adoption of the MEC only if several amendments are made to the MEC in the process. One change the commenter proposed would involve retaining directions for using the MEC for rehabilitation work. This feature of the rule was removed by HUD because the MPS is used only as a standard for new construction. By HUD policy, rehabilitation is governed by local requirements. The Department feels that other changes to the MEC suggested by the commenter should be made through the established code change process.

Section 109 of the National Affordable Housing Act of 1990 (NAHA) states, in part, that:

The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development shall, not later than one year after the date of enactment of this Act, promulgate energy efficiency standards for new construction of public and assisted housing and single-family- and multifamily residential housing (other than manufactured homes) subject to mortgages under the National Housing Act. Such standards shall meet or exceed the provisions of the most recent edition of the Model Energy Code of the Council of American Building Officials and shall be cost-effective with respect to construction and operating costs.

While the Department finds many of the above-described comments worthy of consideration for future HUD energy studies, the Department has determined that they are not sufficiently persuasive to permit HUD to violate the clearly stated mandate of the Act regarding the promulgation of energy efficiency standards. The Department's consultations with the Department of Energy (DOE) and others indicate that the MEC clearly can be considered a cost-effective standard. The following studies, focused on various aspects of the MEC, support this position:

Economic Assessment of Model Energy Code Proposal 87-20, Submitted by MIMI, M. F. McBride, July 9, 1987;
Impacts of Alternative Residential Energy Standards—Rural Housing Amendments Study, Department of Energy, June 1988;
Comparison of the Economic Effects of Three Residential Energy Codes on Home Buyers, Battelle PNL, November 1990;
Assessment of Energy Savings Resulting from Thermal Insulation Use in the Residential Sector, RCG/Hagler, Bailey, Inc., et al., December 1990; Better Building Codes for Energy Efficiency, the Alliance to Save Energy, September 1991.

To comply with the mandate of Section 109 of the NAHA which states: "In developing such standards the Secretary shall consult an advisory task force composed of home builders, national, state and local housing agencies (including public housing agencies), energy agencies and building code organizations and agencies, energy efficiency organizations, utility organizations, low income housing organizations, and other parties designated by the Secretary." HUD has consulted with many individuals and organizations with interest in energy usage. DOE is involved with a study to identify areas where additional research is needed that will improve energy conservation. As new improved methods and products are developed they will be proposed for changes to the standard.

One comment recommended that several standards from the American Concrete Institute, the American Society of Civil Engineers and the American Society for Testing and Materials be added to Appendix A. The recommended standards, upon examination, were determined either to be outdated or already referenced or listed in the Model Codes that HUD has adopted by reference. Accordingly, the Department has determined that it is not necessary to include them in the MPS.

A commenter opposed the use of the CABO One and Two Family Dwelling Code (OTFDC) 1992 Edition and its errata package for townhouse design because of problems the commenter claimed would be raised involving consistency with fire risk factors, and concerns involving fire retardant treated plywood. Section 200.926(d)(3) has been revised in this final rule to state that fire retardant treated plywood, where approved by a state or local building code, shall not be permitted for use in roof construction unless a technical suitability bulletin has been issued by the Department for that product.

The CABO One and Two Family Dwelling Code was developed for use in all types of One and Two Family dwellings, including townhouses (See Section R-103, Scope). In areas where no building code exists, the CABO code will establish a minimum level of construction requirements. Where a Model, State or local code is in use and it is more stringent than the CABO OTFDC, the more stringent code would apply.

One of the recommendations for fire retardant treated plywood was for a time-delay strength evaluation procedure. It was suggested that this be a part of the approval process for acceptance of this product. It was also recommended that a national standard be developed that would incorporate a method of verifying test results.

Because of the recent history of premature failures of fire retardant treated plywood, its manufacturing durability tests are being reviewed by HUD. Durability and strength tests, after treatment, must be verified before the issuance of any HUD approvals. HUD is currently working with the plywood manufacturers and treaters, the National Forest Products Association and the Forest Products Laboratory to determine future manufacturing and testing procedures. When this work has been completed, HUD will determine how and where this fire retardant treated plywood may be used.

It was recommended by one commenter that the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Home and Garden Bulletin No. 64, "Subterranean Termites, Their Prevention and Control in Buildings," be added to the list of references in Appendix A, as a convenience for builders and building officials. This bulletin is a companion to the Agriculture Handbook for Wood Frame Construction, Handbook No. 73 specified in the proposed rule. Its addition is acceptable to the Department. It was also requested that the design standards for wood construction and P.S. 20-70, the softwood lumber standards, be added to those listed in the appendix. The National Design Specification (NDS) for wood construction is included in the three Model Codes: Uniform, BOCA, and Southern. The Department has determined that it is unnecessary to reference these standards again.

By recognizing the National Design Standards for wood construction, it is not considered necessary to include P.S. 20-70. Soft wood is included in the NDS.

Consistent with section 804(f)(5)(C) of the Fair Housing Act, a new section has been added that references the Department's Fair Housing Accessibility Guidelines, published in the Federal Register on March 8, 1991 (56 FR 9472). The Guidelines may be used by builders and developers in designing and constructing covered multifamily dwelling units to comply with the Fair Housing Act and 24 CFR 100.205.

The proposed changes to the Minimum Property Standards for Housing (MPS) 4910.1 (Chapters 1 and 6) will be adopted as published in the proposed rule.

A sentence has been added to § 200.925. That section explains the applicability of the MPS. The new sentence clarifies that MPS provisions may be waived to the extent that the eligibility regulations for the specific mortgage insurance program involved may be waived. Single family program regulations are generally waivable. For example, § 203.248 permits waiver of the eligibility requirements in Part 203 that apply to the basic section 203(b) single family program, if the requirements are not required by statute. Among those requirements is § 203.39, which requires that "buildings on the mortgaged property must conform with the standards prescribed by the Commissioner." In order for the authority to waive § 203.39 to be meaningful, waiver of the MPS is also needed since for new construction cases the MPS constitutes the standards referred to in § 203.39. HUD has therefore interpreted the § 203.39 in a case where § 203.39 applies. The rule change will expressly add this interpretation.

The Department has deleted in this final rule Appendix B to Part 200—Standards Incorporated by Reference in the Minimum Property Standards for One- and Two-Family Dwellings.

This final rule does not constitute a "significant regulatory action" as that term is defined in section 3(f) of Executive Order 12866 on Federal Regulations issued by the President on October 4, 1993. The rule does not:

- (1) Have an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more or adversely affect in a material way the economy, a sector of the economy, productivity, competition, jobs, the environment, public health or safety, or State, local, or tribal governments or communities;
- (2) Create a serious inconsistency or otherwise interfere with an action taken or planned by another agency;
- (3) Materially alter the budgetary impact of entitlements, grants, user fees, or loan programs or the rights and obligations of recipients thereof; or
- (4) Raise novel legal or policy issues arising out of legal mandates, the President's priorities, or the principles set forth in this Executive order.

The Secretary, in accordance with the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 605(b)), has reviewed this rule before publication and by approving it certifies that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. This rule does not alter the current practice by which housing is designed or constructed. It reduces the burden of compliance which already exists for both small and large entities. In all cases, housing must be built in compliance with local codes.

A Finding of No Significant Impact with respect to the environment has been made in accordance with HUD regulations in 24 CFR part 50, which implement section 102(2)(C) of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. The Finding of No Significant Impact is available for public inspection during regular business hours at the Office of Rules Docket Clerk at room 10278, Department of Housing and Urban Development, 451 Seventh Street, SW., Washington, DC 20410-0500.

This rule was listed as item 1523 in the Department's Semiannual Agenda of Regulations published on October 25, 1993 (58 FR 56402, 56427) pursuant to Executive Order 12866 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

The General Counsel, as the Designated Official under section 6(a) of Executive Order 12612, Federalism, has determined that the policies contained in this rule do not have federalism implications and, thus, are not subject to review under the Order. This rule only revises HUD's Minimum Property Standards, which are harmonized with local codes and local construction practice to the maximum feasible extent. This rule presents no discernible likelihood of any conflict with State or local law.

The General Counsel, as the Designated Official under Executive Order 12606, The Family, has determined that this rule does not have a potentially significant impact on family formation, maintenance and general well-being, and, thus, is not subject to review under the Order. This rule has no significant relationship to family-related issues.

Regulatory History

On March 26, 1992, the Coast Guard published a notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) entitled "Documentation of Vessels; Recording of Instruments" in the Federal Register (57 FR 15044). That NPRM contained the Coast Guard's proposed revision of 46 CFR part 67, setting forth standards and procedural simplifications for documenting vessels and filing and recording instruments affecting the title of documented vessels. On May 20, 1992, the Coast Guard published an additional NPRM entitled "Documentation of Vessels; Recording of Instruments; Fees" in the Federal Register (57 FR 21546). The additional NPRM set forth proposed fees for services provided based on the revision to part 67 proposed on March 26, 1992 (57 FR 10544).

Comments on both proposals were received from individuals, law firms, commercial vessel documentation services, industry groups, and maritime corporations. The Coast Guard received 41 comments on its proposed standards and procedures, and 40 comments on the proposed fees. Although some comments were received after the close of the comment period, all were considered in promulgating this final rule. No public hearing was requested and none was held.

Following analysis of those comments dealing with proposed rules for submission of citizenship declarations, a final rule entitled "Documentation of Vessels; Recording of Instruments; Citizenship Declarations" was published on September 24, 1992 (57 FR 44126). This final rule partially implemented certain provisions of the Coast Guard's proposal of March 26, 1992, regarding filing a declaration of citizenship (MA-899) in connection with the filing and recording of certain instruments.

In the interest of setting forth documentation regulations as clearly as possible, the Coast Guard has combined its proposals of March 26, 1992 (57 FR 10544), and May 20, 1992 (57 FR 21546), into this single final rule. The comments received in response to both proposals are discussed below. Because this final rule revises all of part 67, the changes made in the final rule of September 24, 1992 (57 FR 44126), concerning citizenship declarations are republished without change in this rule.

Background and Purpose

On November 28, 1988, Congress enacted Public Law 100-710 (the "Codification Act") which amended and codified the Ship Mortgage Act, 1920 into 46 U.S.C. chapter 313; amended the Shipping Act, 1916 (46 U.S.C. app. 808); and eliminated the prohibition against collecting fees for commercial vessel documentation services by amending 46 U.S.C. 2210. The Codification Act was the subject of technical corrections ("Corrections") when Congress enacted Pub. L. 101-225. Both the Codification Act and the Corrections introduced significant changes which are at variance with the former law and with existing Coast Guard regulations.

Most of the provisions of the Codification Act which require changes to the Coast Guard's regulations became effective on January 1, 1989. Certain of the changes were unequivocal and were implemented by an interim final rule published October 12, 1989 (54 FR 41835). The interim final rule was adopted as final in a rulemaking published January 10, 1991 (56 FR 960).

Other statutory revisions, some of which became effective on January 1, 1989, and others which became effective on January 1, 1990, required a more considered approach, including the opportunity for public comment. These latter changes were the subject of the NPRM published March 26, 1992 (57 FR 10544). The intent of the Codification Act and the Corrections was to simplify and streamline the documentation process. Accordingly, the Coast Guard has revised all of its regulations to simplify and clarify the rules and present them in a more orderly fashion.

In addition to requiring changes in the Coast Guard's regulations, the Codification Act also required changes in rules administered by the Maritime Administration affecting the transfer of documented vessels. Those rules, which are set forth in 46 CFR part 221 were the subject of an interim final rule published on February 2, 1989 (54 FR 5382, amended at 54 FR 8195). In addition, the Maritime Administration published a notice of proposed rulemaking on April 13, 1990 (55 FR 14040), and a second interim final rule on July 3, 1991 (56 FR 30656). Following a comment period, the Maritime Administration published a final rule on June 3, 1992 (57 FR 23470). That rule was at variance with the Coast Guard requirements which were then in force with regard to the requirement to file Declarations of Citizenship with certain instruments affecting the title of documented vessels. In order to reduce uncertainty regarding the validity of certain instruments, and to allow the Coast Guard to immediately eliminate a needless paperwork burden on the public estimated at 19,600 hours per year, the Coast Guard published a final rule on September 24, 1992 (57 FR 44126), which conformed the Coast Guard's regulations regarding the filing of Declarations of Citizenship to those of the Maritime Administration.

In addition to the foregoing, the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990 ("Reconciliation Act") (Public Law 101-508) requires the Coast Guard to establish user fees for, among other things, Coast Guard services related to vessel documentation. The user fees required by the Reconciliation Act were the subject of the NPRM published on May 20, 1992 (57 FR 21546). Prior to the Reconciliation Act, the only vessel documentation fees prescribed by the Coast Guard were for services related to recreational vessels, and several fees prescribed by statute relative to recording instruments affecting the title of documented vessels. As required by the Reconciliation Act, the fees set forth in this rule use the criteria in 31 U.S.C. 9701 and reflect the Coast Guard's current program costs associated with commercial and recreational vessel transactions. By implementing these fees, the Coast Guard will recover current operating and overhead costs associated with vessel documentation and filing and recording activities under 46 U.S.C. chapters 121 and 313. The fees in this rule will be reviewed annually to determine if adjustments or changes are necessary. The Coast Guard will revise these fees when costs change because of inflation, deflation, or changes in the way services are provided. In addition, new statutes may require the Coast Guard to establish new regulations or make substantive amendments to its existing regulations. When this occurs, the Coast Guard will propose appropriate user fees in each rulemaking.

Discussion of Comments and Changes

Some of the comment letters were very detailed in their comments and suggestions, while others raised questions or simply supported or opposed certain sections of the proposed rules without detailed comments or suggestions. Each comment letter received has been considered in the development of this final rule.

Among the comment letters were four requests for an extension of the comment period for the proposal published March 26, 1992 (57 FR 10544). The Coast Guard allowed 90 days for comment instead of the usual 60 days. It is doubtful that any new substantive material would be developed as a result of extending the comment period. Accordingly, the comment period was not extended. The substantive comments received are discussed below.

Four comments were received concerning the definition of acknowledgment. One comment merely expressed support for the proposed change. Three noted that the attestation which the Coast Guard proposed to accept as an acknowledgment was actually a notarization and not a true acknowledgment. One comment observed that not all of the States have adopted one of the uniform acts regarding acknowledgments. It also noted that the proposed format for a universally acceptable acknowledgment for vessel documentation purposes might not satisfy the legal requirements for an acknowledgment in a given State. In addition, the comment stated that the definition of acknowledgment as a "certificate issued under the Hague Convention Abolishing the Requirement for Legalisation of Public Documents, 1961" needs elaboration. The Coast Guard's sole purpose in providing certain standards for acknowledgments is to define the minimal requirements which must be met in order to make instruments eligible for filing and recording. The proposed definition, which is based upon the statutory definition in 46 U.S.C. 31301, was not intended to be an exhaustive or exclusive list of acceptable forms of acknowledgment. Although the Coast Guard is aware that some States may have additional requirements for acknowledgments, the legislative history of the underlying statute makes clear that the Secretary can prescribe a uniform form of acknowledgment or notarization. (H.R. 100-918) Based on the comments, the definition of acknowledgment has been expanded to clarify that acknowledgments or notarizations made pursuant to the laws of any State satisfy the Federal statutory requirements for acknowledgments of instruments. In addition to amending the proposed form of acknowledgment to include the term "acknowledged," there is a fuller discussion of procedures to be fulfilled in affixing certificates or "apostilles" pursuant to the Hague Convention Abolishing the Requirement for Legalisation of Public Documents, 1961.

One comment contended that the words "as defined in this section" in the definition of citizen should be struck as meaningless. The Coast Guard agrees and has made the suggested change.

One comment objected to the inclusion of "passengers" in the definition of coastwise trade, noting that the term "coastwise trade" more appropriately applies to transportation of merchandise. Although the Coast Guard agrees that the comment is technically correct, it is noted that under the statutes administered by the U.S. Customs Service a coastwise endorsement is required for transportation of passengers between points embraced within the coastwise laws of the United States. Therefore, the definition was not changed.

One comment contended that the definitions of the terms coastwise trade and fisheries were not new. Although the terms are not new, their definitions have been revised to conform to statutory changes. That comment further inquired about the change in the wording of the definition of coastwise trade from "a point in the United States embraced within the coastwise laws" to "points embraced within the coastwise laws of the United States." The change is required because Pub. L. 100-329 expanded the scope of section 27 of the Merchant Marine Act, 1920, (46 U.S.C. app. 883), to include transportation from a point or place in the United States to a point or place in the Exclusive Economic Zone of the United States.

One comment noted that the word "shellfish" had been inadvertently omitted from the definition of fisheries. That omission has been corrected.

The definition of hull was characterized by one comment as potentially confusing when read in conjunction with the definition of superstructure. As proposed, it would be possible to conclude that the main deck of a vessel is included in neither its hull nor superstructure. The definition of superstructure has been amended to avoid confusion.

Two comments observed that the Virgin Islands should have been included in the definition of United States. That observation is correct, and the oversight has been corrected.

Section 67.7 has been amended in response to a comment to clearly reflect the requirement that a valid endorsement is required for vessel operation.

Six comments addressed § 67.11. Each comment addressed a slightly different portion of the section, noting the need for consistency between Coast Guard regulations and pertinent Maritime Administration regulations in 46 CFR part 221. Review of the comments revealed that the proposed rulemaking had inadvertently stated that only vessels owned by citizens of the United States as defined in section 2 of the Shipping Act, 1916 (46 U.S.C. app. 802) require approval of the Maritime Administration prior to transfer to foreign registry or operation under the authority of a foreign country. However, section 9 of the Shipping Act, 1916 (46 U.S.C. app. 808) provides that approval of the Maritime Administration is required for any documented vessel to be transferred to foreign registry or operated under the authority of a foreign country, whether or not the owner is a citizen within the meaning of section 2 of the Shipping Act, 1916. Section 67.11 has been rewritten in this final rule to properly reflect the requirements of the applicable statutes and to conform more closely to the rules of the Maritime Administration.

Two comments expressed the opinion that the cross reference in § 67.12 to 46 CFR subpart 1.03 dealing with the right of appeal is confusing. They suggest that part 67 be expanded to set out the applicable sections of subpart 1.03 or that reference be made to specific applicable sections of subpart 1.03. The Coast Guard does not agree. Complying with those suggestions would require revision of part 67 whenever subpart 1.03 is revised, and would increase the potential for the public to be misled. However, the Coast Guard has decided to amend the procedural appeal provisions in subpart 1.03 to clarify their application to vessel documentation decisions.

One comment suggested that § 67.15 should provide for a temporary Certificate of Documentation for vessels not previously documented, and which are to be used exclusively for recreational purposes. The comment asserts that 46 U.S.C. 12102(b) provides statutory authority for issuing temporary documents to avoid delays caused by a heavy workload. That assertion is a strained reading of the statute. Section 12102(b) was originally enacted as part of the Vessel Documentation Act, 1980, and was intended solely to allow documentation of vessels prior to issuance of tonnage certificates. Although there are no plans at present for issuance of temporary Certificates of Documentation for any purpose, the suggestion will be reviewed in the future.

Two comments noted that in § 67.17, Wake Island had been omitted from the list of places with which a vessel with a registry endorsement may trade. The comments are correct, and the oversight has been corrected.

One comment argued that paragraphs (a) and (b) of § 67.19 should be reworded, by substituting the words "gives a lawful right to a vessel to engage in * * *" for "entitles a vessel to employment in * * *". It is also suggested that a similar change be made in paragraph (d). The purpose of the comment is to support the submitter's contention that the First and Second Provisos of section 27 of the Merchant Marine Act of 1920 ("First Proviso" and "Second Provision") are inapplicable to any vessel which has never actually been documented with a coastwise or a Great Lakes endorsement, and therefore, in the submitter's opinion, has never gained a lawful right to engage in coastwise or Great Lakes trade. The Coast Guard does not agree. Both Coast Guard and the U.S. Customs Service, which was formerly responsible for documentation of vessels under the U.S. flag, have consistently held that a vessel gains the lawful right to engage in the coastwise trade by virtue of meeting build and ownership requirements, not by virtue of having obtained the endorsement required to engage in that trade. This interpretation is also consistent with the long-held policy of the Coast Guard that the right to engage in the restricted trades is an entitlement that appertains to the vessel and arises as a matter of law upon meeting the requisite conditions. On the other hand, a coastwise endorsement is a license to engage in the coastwise trade. Although a right is not necessarily dependent upon a license or registration, exercising that right may require obtaining a license or other registration. As an example, U.S. citizens have the lawful right to vote, but, in most cases, must register in order to exercise that right. The same comment also recommends changes to § 67.50, 67.57, 67.59, 67.63, 67.177 to make them consistent with the recommended amendment to § 67.19. Because the Coast Guard does not agree with the comment's interpretation of the meaning of the First and Second Provisos of section 27, none of the suggested changes have been adopted.

One comment questioned the propriety of granting coastwise and Great Lakes privileges to any vessel which as the subject of a forfeiture for breach of law of the United States if that vessel had previously lost coastwise privileges by virtue of having been sold foreign. The comment is based on language in the First Proviso which states that any such vessel losing its coastwise trading privileges as discussed shall not thereafter acquire the right to engage in the coastwise trade. (46 U.S.C. app. 883). However, the restriction is not absolute. Congress may, and in fact frequently does, grant special legislative relief from the First Proviso. Further, vessels qualifying under the Wrecked Vessel Statute (46 U.S.C. app. 14) have previously lost trading privileges restored. Likewise, the Coast Guard's long-standing position is that although a vessel loses coastwise trading privileges upon sale foreign, it may regain those privileges if it is subsequently forfeited for breach of law of the United States.

Section 67.31 is not new, as one comment asserted, but is an almost verbatim restatement of existing § 67.03-2. Three comments objected to paragraph (b) which requires that where title to a vessel is held by an entity comprised in whole or in part of other entities which are not individuals, each entity contributing to the stock or equity qualification of the entity holding title must be a citizen eligible in its own right to document the vessel with the trade endorsement(s) sought. This section has been the subject of litigation, Conoco, Inc. v. Skinner, 970 F.2d 1206 (3d Cir. 1992). The Third Circuit Court of Appeals has upheld the regulation from which this section is derived as proper.

Two of the comments addressing § 67.31 also argued for adoption of a "fair inference" rule, which would establish a standard for use by publicly traded corporations to infer the percentage of stock owned by U.S. citizens. The comments indicated that the Coast Guard should adopt such a test to conform its regulations to those of the Maritime Administration. The Coast Guard has consistently declined to adopt a fair inference rule. The standard most often suggested is one based on the address of the stockholders. The Coast Guard will not accept any standard based solely upon the address of the stockholders. In today's business climate of tiered corporate structures and complex equity ownership arrangements it is not unusual to find entities which are not U.S. citizens, but which have a U.S. address, owing significant percentages of the stock in a publicly traded corporation which owns a U.S. vessel.

Vessel-owning corporations are not routinely required to provide supporting evidence that their stock is owned by U.S. citizens, even to establish eligibility for coastwise or fisheries endorsements. The documentation application form (Form CG-1258), requires only that a vessel owner state, within broad ranges, the amount of stock owned by U.S. citizens.

In the past, some corporations were required to provide evidence establishing their eligibility because the Coast Guard had reason to suspect they did not meet stock interest requirements. A presumption in favor of eligibility in those cases would not have precluded the Coast Guard from requiring the additional information. The Coast Guard's experience is that a presumption in favor of eligibility would not serve to further reduce the paperwork burden on the public or make the documentation process any more efficient. The documentation laws are meant to be restrictive and are intended to limit the persons who are eligible to document vessels under U.S. flag and acquire trading privileges. Corporations can make proof of citizenship less difficult, for instance by restricting sale of their stock to U.S. citizens, or using a transfer agent to administer a dual stock certificate system. Of course, any U.S. corporation that is unwilling to subject itself to the possibility of having to prove that it qualifies for coastwise or fisheries privileges can choose not to seek them. The Coast Guard will not be bound by an presumption or inferences in making eligibility determinations for documentation purposes. Therefore, none have been incorporated into this final rule.

Five comments were received regarding the proposal in § 67.37 which would permit documentation of a vessel by a trust notwithstanding the existence of non-citizen beneficiaries who do not have an enforceable interest in the trust. Four of the comments found the rule too restrictive, noting that the rules concerning trusts have proven troublesome in recreational vessel documentation. The fifth comment supported the rule as written. While it is recognized that restrictive citizenship requirements may prove troublesome in documenting recreational vessels, the Coast Guard's position is that current law prohibits documentation of a vessel owned in a trust arrangement where non-citizens hold an enforceable interest in the trust. The enforceable interest requirement only defines citizenship with respect to the eligibility of a trust to document a vessel under 46 U.S.C. 12102. A trust seeking to document a vessel with a coastwise endorsement must also meet the citizenship requirements of 2 of the Shipping Act, 1916 (46 U.S.C. app. 802).

One comment agreed with the wording of § 67.39, dealing with corporations, but took exception to the Coast Guard's interpretation of the statutory requirement on which the regulation is based. The Coast Guard has consistently held that when a corporation has both a chief executive officer and president, both must be U.S. citizens. That interpretation is consistent with the language of 46 U.S.C. 121102(a)(4), which requires that the "president or other chief executive officer" must be citizens. To be consistent with the requirement that documented vessels be owned by U.S. citizens, it is necessary to read the word "or" as conjunctive, and not as exclusive in nature. Therefore, when a corporation has both a chief executive officer and a president, it is not permissible for merely one or the other to be a citizen. The Coast Guard's interpretation also furthers the general purpose of the statute ensuring that corporate officers with actual or ostensible authority to act on behalf of the corporation be U.S. citizens.

It was correctly noted by one comment that part of § 67.41 was omitted, so that the section failed to state the purpose for which it defines governmental entities as citizens. That oversight has been corrected so that it now states that "A governmental entity is a citizen for the purpose of obtaining a vessel document * * *."

No comments were received regarding § 67.45, which sets forth the citizenship savings provision for fishing vessels. This section was promulgated in its present form in the Coast Guard's final rule (CGD 88-031) published on December 12, 1990 (55 FR 51244), implementing the Commercial Fishing Industry Vessel Anti-Reflagging Act of 1987. As was noted in the NPRM of March 26, 1992, this section has been the subject of litigation. In Southeast Shipyard Assn. v. United States, No. 90-11142 (D.D.C., April 30, 1991), the District Court decided that the Coast Guard's interpretation of the citizenship savings provision of the Commercial Fishing Industry Vessel Anti-Reflagging Act of 1987 was incorrect. Also as noted the NPRM of March 26, 1992, the decision of the District Court was under appeal. On September 21, 1992, the Coast Guard published an advance notice of proposed rulemaking (57 FR 43432; CGD 88-031a), seeking comments on a number of issues which would need to be addressed in order to develop a rule consistent with the order of the District Court should that order be upheld on appeal. On November 24, 1992, the Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia reversed the decision of the District Court and upheld the Coast Guard's interpretation of the citizenship savings provision. Therefore, this section is unchanged in this final rule. On March 4, 1993, the Coast Guard published a notice in the Federal Register (58 FR 12352) withdrawing the advance notice of proposed rulemaking published on September 21, 1992. Since the Circuit Court's decision was not appealed, the Coast Guard considers this matter closed.

One comment addressing § 67.50 questioned the omission of a previous requirement for presentation of title evidence upon a change of legal name of the vessel owner. The omission was deliberate since a change of legal name does not actually constitute a change in ownership.

Four comments observed that the simplified methods of establishing title to vessels described in § 67.53 are subject to misuse and fraud, and should not be encouraged. The NPRM merely proposed options whereby owners of certain vessels may use a simplified method to establish title to a vessel. While the simplified method of establishing title may not be foolproof, any title system is vulnerable to fraud. Furthermore, 46 U.S.C. 12104(3) specifically provides that a Certificate of Documentation is not conclusive evidence of ownership in a proceeding in which ownership is in dispute.

One comment suggested that it would be appropriate to include language in § 67.57 dealing with coastwise trade prohibitions for vessels built with the aid of a construction-differential subsidy under the provisions of Article (sic) V of the Merchant Marine Act of 1936. The Coast Guard does not agree. Title V of that Act (46 U.S.C. app. 1151-1161, as amended), generally limits vessels built with construction differential subsidy funds to foreign trade, and with few exceptions, bars them from "domestic" trade. However, notwithstanding the requirement in sections 1153 and 1154 providing that such vessels must be documented under the laws of the United States, Title V is silent on the issue of coastwise trade. Moreover, any restrictions on vessel operation pursuant to the strictures of Title V arise as a contractual arrangement which is outside the scope of the Coast Guard's responsibilities under the vessel documentation laws.

One comment stated the fact that a chain of title beginning with a Manufacturer's Certificate of Origin is deemed incomplete is a reason to combine the Manufacturer's Certificate (or Statement) of Origin with the Builder's Certification. The two forms serve somewhat different purposes, and while the Coast Guard does not oppose combining the two, it lacks the statutory authority to do so.

One comment noted an error in the cross reference to § 67.13(b) in paragraph (a) of § 67.63. The cross reference should have been to § 67.131(b). That error has been corrected. Paragraph (b) of § 67.63 has also been reworded in order to eliminate the inadvertent suggestion that presentation of title evidence is applicable only to vessels documented pursuant to the Wrecked Vessel Statute (46 U.S.C. app. 14). Presentation of title evidence is also required for vessels documented pursuant to grants of special legislation.

Several comments objected to the provision in § 67.73, permitting use of the reverse of either the Builder's Certification on form CG-1261 or the Manufacturer's Certificate of Origin to transfer undocumented vessels from the party for whom built. The Coast Guard notes that these methods of evidencing transfer of title are permissible, not mandatory, and that parties still have the option to present a bill of sale if desired.

In response to a comment, § 67.79 has been reworded for clarity without substantive change.

Comments received in regard to § 67.83 demonstrated the need for a section devoted to sale of vessels deemed abandoned under State statutes. Accordingly, § 67.91 has been added to address passage of title in this manner. Another comment suggested that only an affidavit from a foreclosing party should be required, that there should be no requirement for submission of the instrument under which foreclosure was made, and that the Coast Guard was placing "undue burden" on itself in requiring demonstration of compliance with the terms of the instrument and any applicable statutes. The Coast Guard disagrees. The requirements of the regulation are the minimum necessary to ensure that there has been actual passage of title, and that the passage of title was in accordance with State law.

One comment urged the Coast Guard to merge the Builder's Certification provided for in § 67.99 with the form used for a Manufacturer's Certificate of Origin. As discussed earlier in this preamble, the Coast Guard does not disagree with this suggestion. However, the Coast Guard has concluded that it does not have the statutory authority to mandate combining the forms. Another comment recommended controlling the issuance of duplicate Builder's Certification. It was suggested that this could be done by requiring any person issuing a Builder's Certification to report that fact to the Coast Guard for inclusion in the "Coast Guard's data bank * * *." While this suggestion may seem simple to implement, the Coast Guard considers it impracticable. There is neither a restriction on who may build a vessel nor a central registry of "data bank" for vessel builders, many of whom may build only one or two vessels. Accordingly, it would be virtually impossible to enforce such a provision.

In response to § 67.101, one comment requested a definition of "competent and persuasive evidence." The term is a standard by which the Coast Guard evaluates evidence of build. Promulgating a regulatory definition of that term may ultimately prove to severely limit the types of evidence which might help to establish the facts of vessel build. The same comment suggested that a statement of a "certified surveyor" should be sufficient to establish the facts of vessel build. That suggestion has not been adopted since surveyors typically are knowledgeable about a vessel's condition and value, but will rarely, if even, know if (a) the manufacturer fabricated all major components of the vessel's hull or superstructure in the U.S., and (b) the identity of the person(s) for whom the vessel was built, along with the ownership percentage of the vessel vested in each.

One comment stated that the requirements set forth in subpart G "duplicated" measurement requirements in 46 CFR part 69. The Coast Guard does not agree. Subpart of part 67 provides basic information needed by applicants for vessel documentation, and links part 69 by cross reference.

There was general support for identifying the managing owner of a vessel as required in § 67.113, provided that owners of vessels which are currently documented do not have to exchange those documents or make a filing to designate a managing owner. There are no plans to require any such filings or exchanges of documents. However, designation of a managing owner will be required for vessels currently documented whenever the document is required to be exchanged in accordance with § 67.167, or replaced in accordance with § 67.169. One comment objected to allowing the address of the managing owner of a vessel to be based upon "any residence" suggesting that the requirement be restricted to "principal residence." It is asserted that this would assist in determining which documentation office would be most likely to have the records of a particular vessel, and establish a single place at which a vessel owner would be subject to personal jurisdiction as a foreclosure action. Another comment suggested restricting the choices of an individual vessel owner to the owner's "principal residence" or "principal place of business." The Coast Guard does not agree that limiting a vessel owner's options for establishing the port of record would be particularly advantageous in determining which port of documentation would be most likely to have records of a vessel owned by a certain owner, or necessary to establish personal jurisdiction in foreclosure actions. Allowing individuals to establish addresses based upon principal places of business is not considered a good idea since in the event of relocation, the Post Office will generally forward mail addressed to one's residence, but the same service may not be available for mail addressed to an individual at a place of business. The Coast Guard's present computer search capabilities make rigid port choices less important. Moreover, by requiring that all vessels owned by an owning entity must have the same port of record, there is a greater assurance that all records for a given vessel owner will be found at the same location. Two comments suggested that the Coast Guard continued its past practice of allowing the address of the managing owner to be based upon the address of a long-term bareboat charterer. That practice has proven problematic. Renewal notices, for instance, require an affirmative statement about such things as the vessel owner's citizenship; charterers are rarely able to make such affirmations with any degree of certitude. Moreover, the very practice of having the charterer attend to vessel documentation functions raises questions about the de facto ownership of the vessel. Therefore, the suggestion is not adopted.

Comments on relaxation of the rule for choice of hailing port contained in § 67.119 were generally favorable. However, one vessel documentation agent objected based on a perception that this would increase the opportunity for smugglers to confuse authorities. An individual questioned the purpose of a hailing port if the guidelines for choosing that port were liberal. The requirement for a hailing port assists in identifying vessels, particularly since there is no prohibition against many vessels bearing the same name. Moreover, because the hailing port will appear on the Certificate of Documentation upon implementation of these regulations, it will in fact be easier to identify an unauthorized alteration of a vessel's hailing port by smugglers and other miscreants.

Several persons objected to the provision of § 67.120 which would have deemed vessel documents invalid until the vessel was properly marked with its name, hailing port, and official number, noting that such a provision would give rise to questions about the efficacy of a mortgage filed to evidence a security interest in the vessel. The section has been corrected to provide that the vessel's document will not be valid for operation until it is marked in accordance with the regulations found elsewhere in subpart I.

Section 67.123 has been amended in response to a comment to provide marking criteria for certain types of vessels for which the usual marking requirements are impracticable. The same comment queried whether abbreviations of the city and State of the hailing port would be permitted. While generally recognized abbreviations, such as N.Y., N.Y., would be permitted, determinations concerning abbreviations would have to be made on a case-by-case basis. The final authority to determine the propriety of a given hailing port, including abbreviations in a hailing port, and the proper marking of the vessel is vested in the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection for the zone in which the vessel is principally operated.

One comment noted that there was no provision in § 67.141 for submission of consent of the vessel mortgagee to certain vessel documentation actions, if applicable. That oversight has been corrected.

Two comments objected to the fact that the prohibition against exchange of a document without mortgagee consent in § 67.145 does not apply to vessels subject only to mortgages filed or recorded before January 1, 1989, and which had not attained preferred status as of that date. The distinction in paragraph (b) of § 67.145 is based upon the provisions of section 301(b) of the Corrections, which limits the applicability of 46 U.S.C. 1211(c)(3) to those mortgages filed or recorded after January 1, 1989, the effective date of the statute, and to those mortgages which had attained preferred status as of that date. Accordingly, no change has been made.

Two comments objected to the requirement for annual renewal of the vessel's endorsement(s) in § 67.163. The Coast Guard considered alternatives to annual renewal. However, experience has shown that where annual renewal is not required, vessel owners often fail to report changes of address and other facts which may require exchange of the Certificate of Documentation. In addition, annual renewal helps the Coast Guard fulfill its statutory responsibility to ensure that vessels engaging in restricted trades remain eligible for those trades. Because the Post Office will forward mail for only one year, it is more expensive to track down vessel owners than to process renewals. The current renewal process requires a minimal effort by the vessel owner, who must merely sign a printed form and return it to the documentation officer. There is no requirement to remove the Certificate from the vessel unless there is a change requiring exchange of the document. One comment requested that renewal notices be sent to bareboat charterers rather than the vessel owner. As noted earlier in this preamble, the bareboat charterer is usually not qualified to make definitive statements about the citizenship of the vessel owner, especially if the owner is a publicly traded corporation.

In accordance with a comment, a cross reference in § 67.165(b)(2) has been corrected. The cross reference should have been to § 67.171(a) (1) through (8).

One comment espoused the view that requiring exchange of a Certificate of Documentation upon the death of a beneficiary in a family trust was too stringent. While the Coast Guard agrees, the issue is moot. The requirement in § 67.167(c)(2) for exchange applies only when a beneficiary with an enforceable interest in the trust changes by addition or substitution, not when there is a change by deletion. Two comments suggested that the new 30-day "grace period" for exchange of the document is too short under certain circumstances. The Coast Guard disagrees. This change is a significant liberalization of the current regulations which generally provide for immediate invalidation of the Certificate of Documentation. However, paragraph (f) of the section has been corrected to eradicate the erroneous statement that a Certificate of Documentation which becomes invalid under paragraph (b) remains valid for 30 days for the purposes of 46 U.S.C. chapter 313. As amended, paragraph (f) provides that a Certificate of Documentation which becomes invalid under paragraph (c) remains valid for 30 days after it otherwise would have become invalid for the purposes of filing a new mortgage or amendment, assignment, assumption, or subordination agreement.

One comment expressed concern about the provision in § 67.171 for deletion of vessels from documentation for failure to maintain the markings required elsewhere in this part. Markings are essential for proper identification of the vessel. It is incumbent on the vessel owner to maintain required markings in a legible manner.

Section 67.177 was the subject of two comments. The first, addressing paragraph (b), requested substitution of the words "had acquired the lawful right to engage in the coastwise trade * * *" in place of "which has not previously permanently lost * * * privileges * * *". The only purpose which would be served by the suggested change would be to give credence to the submitter's interpretation of the applicability of the Second Proviso of section 27 of the Merchant Marine Act, 1920; that interpretation, as noted earlier in the preamble discussion of § 67.19, has been rejected by the Coast Guard. The second comment requested that the regulation be expanded to include the Coast Guard's interpretation of the rebuilding "grandfather" of the Commercial Fishing Industry Vessel Anti-Reflagging Act of 1987. Since the period during which a rebuilding must be accomplished has passed, the Coast Guard has determined that it is not necessary to expand the regulation for that purpose.

One comment complained that § 67.200 was too restrictive by limiting the types of instruments which are eligible for filing and recording. It was suggested that the Coast Guard should also record such instruments as conditional sales contracts and charters of a vessel with an option to purchase. The rationale for the suggestion is based on the words of 46 U.S.C. 31321(a)(1), providing for filing and recording of "A bill of sale, conveyance, mortgage, assignment, or related instrument * * *". The purpose of 46 U.S.C. 31321(a)(1) is to provide for filing of instruments for a vessel at the time the application for documentation is submitted. This filing eliminates the gap in validity perceived to exist while the application for documentation is being processed. The legislative history also indicates the intent of Congress that the types of related instruments required to be filed be defined by regulations. There is nothing in the legislative history to indicate that Congress intended in the statute to expand the types of instruments requiring public notice. Furthermore, an expansion as suggested in the comment would raise a potential conflict between the regulations and those provisions in 46 U.S.C. chapter 313 which distinguish between a vessel owner, charterer, or agreed buyer in possession of the vessel. Therefore, the suggestion is not accepted. Another comment notes that there is no provision for recording a Builder's Certification, but that there is a provision for using the Builder's Certification to evidence transfer of title. Builder's Certifications are filed, noted on the General Index or Abstract of Title (form CG-1332) (referred to hereafter in this preamble as the Abstract of Title), and are kept in the vessel file, thereby fulfilling the notice provisions of 46 U.S.C. 31321 without placing them in a separate record book.

One comment suggested that § 67.203(a)(1) would foreclose the possibility of filing instruments when a vessel is undergoing changes, such as vessel lengthening. That understanding is flawed. The new "grace period" established in § 67.167(f) provides for such filings for the first time. Moreover, if the 30-day grace period has passed, it is permissible to submit new filings by filing them with a new application for documentation, provided that application is in substantial compliance with pertinent regulations in this part. Another comment requested that the Coast Guard define the term "material alteration." The Coast Guard has employed a material alteration standard in accepting instruments for recording for many years. These long years of experience have not revealed any significant difficulty in applying that standard. Therefore, the Coast Guard will not define the term. The Coast Guard also disagrees with concern expressed in one comment that § 67.203 would preclude recording of an instrument when a Certificate of Documentation is deemed invalid because of a Coast Guard clerical error. In such an event, the vessel affected would still be the subject of an application for documentation in substantial compliance with the applicable regulations, thus permitting filing and recording of appropriate instruments.

Section 67.207 was the subject of one comment which noted that although the Coast Guard accepts "as of" dates on instruments, it does not necessarily index the "as of" date on the Abstract of Title. The comment goes on to state that "as long as an instrument bears a date, (the) Coast Guard should accept the instrument and index the date of the instrument, regardless of when it is acknowledged." The present policy of the Coast Guard is to accept instruments with "as of" dates. However, the Coast Guard does not agree that it should accept without reservation instruments bearing any date whatever. It would be improper, for example, to accept an instrument for filing in a situation where the wording and date of the acknowledgement make it apparent that the instrument could not have been signed on the purported date. Moreover, because notices of claim of lien may be recorded only against the record of a vessel subject to a preferred mortgage, the dating of that type of instrument may be absolutely critical to determine the statutory eligibility of the instrument to be filed and recorded.

Six comments were received with regard to the required number of copies set forth in § 67.209. Generally, reaction to reduction in the number of copies required was mixed. However, all six comments, which were from agents who prepare instruments for a fee, objected to language in the preamble in which the Coast Guard proposed a policy to allow mortgagors and mortgagees to jointly certify copies of preferred mortgages. The policy option of allowing the parties to a preferred mortgage to jointly certify copies has been retained.

The discussion of comments received regarding the requirement in § 67.211 for filing a citizenship declaration in connection with certain instruments was published in the preamble to the Coast Guard's final rule published on September 24, 1992 (57 FR 44126), and is not repeated here.

In response to a comment, the heading of § 67.215 has been amended by eliminating the words "and recording." Another comment noted that paragraph (b) of that section provides that when an instrument whose filing is subject to termination is replaced with a new instrument, the new instrument will receive a new filing date and time. The comment is correct in the observation. When the filing of an instrument is subject to termination, and a second instrument is substituted for that instrument, the filing of the substitute instrument does not "relate back" to the date and time of filing of the instrument being replaced. Rather, the substituted instrument receives a new date and time of filing. This does not, as claimed in the comment, contradict the discussion in the preamble which notes that the original date and time of filing may be retained in those situations where supplemental materials are filed to obviate termination of a filing. Section 67.215 has been reworded to clarify the difference in treatment between supplementing a filing and substituting a new filing.

Two comments took issue with the provisions of paragraph (c)(5) of § 67.217. One stated that vessel owners should be able to permit mortgagees to receive all terminated filings submitted in connection with documentation of the vessel and the filing of the mortgage, and that the mortgagee in turn should be able to authorize an agent on its behalf to receive all terminated filings. Another comment, from a documentation agent asserted that requiring documentation agents to obtain authorization from affected parties to receive instruments whose filing has been terminated is "an excessive burden on the agent". The Coast Guard agrees with the first comment and has clarified the section accordingly. It does not agree with the second comment. For many years, the extant requirement for agents to obtain written authorization from mortgagees in order to receive the original preferred mortgage has neither proven to be nor been portrayed as unduly burdensome.

Two comments were received with regard to § 67.223. Both favored the Coast Guard's proposal to permit the filing of bills of sale in conjunction with an application for deletion from documentation. Accordingly, that section is unchanged.

Three comments were received from documentation agents in response to the provision in § 67.231 for an Optional

Application for Filing. All questioned the appropriateness of such an application. The Coast Guard notes, however, that the legislative history of the Codification Act clearly expresses the intent of Congress that such an application be accepted by the Coast Guard in accordance with the terms in § 67.231.

One comment, submitted on behalf of a legal association, objected to the provision in § 67.233 that mortgages and assumptions will not be deemed eligible for filing and recording if the mortgagor or assuming party did not hold legal title at the time of filing. It is suggested that this may be contrary to the statutory scheme and that the regulations could remain silent on this point. The Coast Guard notes that similar provisions which have been in place for many years, including one adopted in 1989, have not proven unduly burdensome. Moreover, the Coast Guard's position is that such a provision is necessary to ensure orderly administration of its filing and recording system.

In response to a comment, the Coast Guard has removed the word "chattel" from paragraph (a) of § 67.235. The word has also been removed from the heading for subpart Q.

One comment agreed with the proposal to eliminate Certificates of Ownership, but stated that the vessel's Abstract of Title should include addresses. Two comments offered no objection to elimination of Certificates of Ownership, but requested entry of addresses on Abstracts of Title. Five other comments objected outright to elimination of the Certificate of Ownership, noting that Abstracts of Title can be difficult to read, and that Certificates of Ownership provide a beneficial service. Upon consideration of all of the comments, the Coast Guard has decided that it is in the best interest of the maritime community for it to continue to issue Certificates of Ownership upon request. Section 67.305 has been added to implement this decision. The inclusion of addresses on Abstracts of Title will not be adopted since addresses are subject to change without notice and because doing so would pose an undue administrative burden on the documentation system.

Two substantive comments were received regarding §§ 67.315 and 67.317. One requested that a "temporary" certificate of some sort be made available to commercial vessels only to allow for movement of the vessel for repair work, outfitting, or similar functions, either within the confines of a port, or to another port. The Coast Guard notes that unless a vessel is being operated in a trade, it is not required to be documented. Moreover, the Coast Guard's position is that there is insufficient statutory authority to permit issuance of such "temporary certificates."

Another comment suggested that the requirement to keep the Certificate of Documentation on board should be inapplicable when it has been submitted to a documentation officer in accordance with the requirements of § 67.167. The Coast Guard agrees in part, noting that paragraphs (d) and (e) of § 67.167 provide circumstances under which the endorsements on a Certificate of Documentation remain valid, notwithstanding an application for exchange of the Certificate. However, it is also noted that only documents whose endorsements are invalid for some reason are subject to exchange in accordance with the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of § 67.167. Therefore, except for applications pursuant to paragraphs (d) and (e) of § 67.167, the affected vessel would be ineligible to engage in certain trades under any circumstances until a new Certificate of Documentation bearing the appropriate trade endorsement had been issued. Sections 67.315 and 67.317 have been modified in order to accommodate owners applying for a change in accordance with the provisions of paragraphs (d) and (e) of § 67.167.

Three comments noted the inadvertent omission of the word "invalid" from § 67.331. Actually, the phrase "which have become invalid under subpart M" was erroneously printed as a line in appendix A to part 67. The section has been corrected.

A total of 41 comments were received with regard to the fees proposed in subpart Y. Of those, 13 objected to either increase in fees or imposition of any fees whatever. Three comments found the amounts of the fees acceptable, but requested that the Coast Guard delay their implementation pending an analysis of the overall effect of all user fees affecting vessel owners. One comment requested exemption from fees for tax-exempt organizations such as the Boy Scouts. A comment from the Maritime Administration requested exemption of fees applied to vessels owned by the Federal Government.

The Coast Guard notes that the Reconciliation Act requires it to collect user fees in order to recover the costs associated with providing vessel documentation services. The law does not expressly allow for exemption of tax-exempt institutions or governmental agencies. Nor does the law provide for delayed implementation.

With regard to tax-exempt organizations, such as the Boy Scouts, vessels owned by these entities may be documented with a registry endorsement for sail-training and a recreational endorsement for other youth program purposes. Vessel documentation for these purposes is not required by law, but is permissive. Only when vessels owned by these entities are operated in the coastwise trade, Great Lakes trade, or fisheries does documentation with the requisite endorsement become mandatory. Where vessel documentation services are provided as a matter of convenience, an exemption from user fees will not be allowed. Where vessels owned by these entities compete in the restricted trades, and documentation is required by law, then as a matter of policy and fairness the tax-exempt entity should pay the fees. Therefore, no tax-exempt entity, including the Boy Scouts, is exempted.

As regards governmental entities however, further analysis is required. Underlying the Reconciliation Act, is an attempt to shift part of the cost of the administration of government from taxpayers at large to persons directly receiving a particular service. A fee charged for providing a service to a Federal agency would be directly paid with federally-appropriated funds. These funds might shift among accounts at the Treasury, but would not increase the revenues to the Treasury. Actually, this activity would increase the cost to taxpayers through added bookkeeping costs. Therefore, the purposes of the Reconciliation Act would not be met. Accordingly, when a user fee is applicable for providing documentation services to a Federal agency acting in its own behalf and that agency would have to pay the fee with federally-appropriated funds, the Coast Guard will waive collection of the fee. The Coast Guard does not anticipate waiving collection of a fee where the Federal agency obtains a documentation service for the benefit of a third party who should be obtaining the service and paying the fee directly.

Five comments, including one from an organization representing commercial vessel operators, and one from an officer of a large U.S.-flag shipping company found the fees generally fair and equitable.

Eight comments took exception to the concept of charging fees for different types of trade endorsements. These objections seem to be based on a lack of understanding of the documentation process. Although it is certainly true that the physical act of typing additional endorsements is not onerous, it is more time consuming to carefully evaluate a vessel's record to ensure that some action in the course of its history has not rendered it ineligible to engage in a restricted trade. The additional time involved in this type of evaluation results in increased costs to the Coast Guard, which in turn requires the Coast Guard to charge a higher fee to recover the costs of its operations.

Eighteen comments objected to a charge of $41.00 for Abstracts of Title. After careful analysis, the Coast Guard agrees with the comments that this fee is too high, and has reduced the fee to $25.00. The reduction is based partly on review of the time spent in issuing Abstracts of Title, which in addition to the time spent locating the file and making copies, requires a physical check of all instruments which have been received in the office, but have not yet been indexed. Another factor in the decision is the fact that the proposed fee was based on the projected number of Abstracts of Title to be issued. Although it is expected that the decision to continue to issue Certificates of Ownership will result in a lesser number of Abstracts of Title being issued, the loss of revenue will be offset by the fees the Coast Guard anticipates collecting for issuing Certificates of Ownership. Section 67.537 has been added to provide for the fee to be charged for a Certificate of Ownership, and for attachments for additional vessels with the same ownership and encumbrance information.

The fee summary table in § 67.550 of the NPRM of May 20, 1992 (57 FR 21546), contained three errors. First, the table stated the proposed fee for a Great Lakes endorsement as $19.00. The correct proposed fee of $29.00, the same as for Coastwise and Coastwise Bowaters endorsements, appeared in § 67.511. Second, the table stated the proposed fee for renewal of endorsements at a port other than the port of record as $5.00. The correct proposed fee of $15.00 appeared in § 67.515. Lastly, the table stated the proposed fee for replacement of a lost or mutilated Certificate as $49.00. The correct proposed fee of $50.00 appeared in § 67.507. The table has been corrected in this final rule. In addition, specific fee amounts are now contained only in the table for ease in use and future amendment as needed.

Eight comments suggested that payment of the proposed fees would be less onerous if fees were rounded off to multiples of five or ten dollars. Although the Coast Guard agrees in principle, there are two statutory requirements at work. First, the Coast Guard is barred from charging more than the cost of a particular service.

Second, the Coast Guard is required to recover all costs associated with documentation of recreational vessels. Although the calculation of user fees for services performed at different ports by different people is less than an exact science, the fees calculated for recreational vessels are close enough to prohibit rounding to multiples of five or ten dollars without violating the second statutory mandate. Therefore, to avoid additional confusion that would be caused where there is one fee schedule for transactions involving commercial vessels and another fee schedule for transactions involving recreational vessels, the Coast Guard has endeavored to maintain a universal cost-based fee structure in whole dollar amounts. This system provides for the most equitable and practical approach in keeping with the applicable statutory mandates and restrictions. Although the new fee schedule may initially appear unwieldy, it will be simpler than the present fee structure for recording bills of sale and mortgages, which requires payment of some multiple of 20 cents, determined by the number of words in the instrument and number of copies.

Lastly, section 5213 of the Oceans Act of 1922 (Pub. L. 102-587) added section 12123 to Title 46 U.S.C., authorizing the Coast Guard to deny the issuance or renewal of, or to revoke, the endorsement(s) on a Certificate of Documentation issued to a vessel if the owner of the vessel has failed to pay a civil penalty assessed by the Coast Guard. Section 5213 of the Oceans Act also amended 46 U.S.C. 12110(c) to render a vessel liable to seizure and forfeiture to the United States should the vessel, after its endorsement has been denied or revoked under the authority of 46 U.S.C. 12123, be operated without proper endorsement.

Almost all of the Coast Guard's vessel documentation regulations, and the statutes which authorize them, adhere to the admiralty doctrine of reification—the notion that privileges, duties, liabilities, and restrictions attached to the vessel itself rather than to its owner. However, this new authority departs from that doctrine and relates to vessel ownership, rather than the vessel itself. Therefore, if an owner fails to pay a civil penalty, adverse action may be taken against the endorsement(s) on Certificates of Documentation for any vessels owned by that owner, not just the vessel involved in the incident leading to the assessment of the civil penalty. Further, action against the endorsement(s) need not be limited to the Certificate of one vessel, but rather may be taken against the Certificates of all vessels owned by that owner. All that is required is that a civil penalty, assessed by the Coast Guard through the civil penalty process, remain unpaid. In order to conform the regulations to this new authority, amendments have been made to appropriate sections relating to application for initial issue, exchange, replacement, or renewal of a Certificate of Documentation, and deletions from documentation that denial or revocation action, as appropriate, may be taken if the vessel owner has an outstanding civil penalty assessed by the Coast Guard.

Incorporation by Reference

The Director of the Federal Register has approved the material in § 67.13 for incorporation by reference under 5 U.S.C. 552 and 1 CFR part 51. The material is available as listed in that section.

Regulatory Evaluation

This regulation is a significant regulatory action under Executive Order 12866. It is also significant under the Department of Transportation Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11040; February 26, 1979) because it concerns matters in which there is substantial public interest. The following constitutes the regulatory evaluation for the rulemaking.

This rulemaking simplifies the paperwork and reporting requirements necessary to effect the documentation of a vessel and streamlines internal administrative procedures and requirements. In addition, it revises existing user fees and establishes new fees for services related to vessel documentation activities.

The benefits of documenting a vessel are practical, legal, and financial. The salient practical benefit (and not coincidentally the reason the concept of Federal documentation exists at all) is to ensure unencumbered interstate and international commerce. This practical benefit is intimately related to the legal benefits attendant upon Federal documentation. The existence of a Federal system of documentation serves to preempt State numbering and regulatory schemes such that a vessel operated under a Federal endorsement (e.g., a coastwise endorsement) is ensured access to State waters for various activities. In fact, the Federal documentation statutes, which date to the earliest days of our Republic, are a direct result of dissatisfaction with impediments to the free flow of commerce once imposed by the several States. That Federal documentation continues to provide this benefit is evidenced by the recurring preemption cases in which a vessel owner or operator invokes the protections of documentation against a State seeking to close its waters to nonresidents for certain activities. In the field of international commerce, documentation establishes the nationality of a vessel and confers the privileges, protections, and immunities contemplated by longstanding international law and custom. Another practical benefit of Federal documentation stems from the preferential customs and tax treatment accorded to "vessels of the United States." Established national policy seeks to promote the existence of an American merchant marine as a resource to be drawn upon in time of emergency or war. To the extent that documentation is a condition precedent to the receipt of preferential customs and tax treatment, it serves as a tool to promote national policy interests. The major financial benefit conferred by documentation is preferred mortgage financing. The availability of capital for maritime financing hinges upon the existence of the preferred mortgage as security for loans against vessels. Since the regulations will make it easier to document a vessel under U.S. law, and will make it easier to file and record instruments, including mortgages, they will enhance the benefits outlined above.

Not all vessels of the requisite size are required by law to be documented. Documentation is not statutorily required for vessels engaging in foreign trade or for those used exclusively for recreational purposes. A registry endorsement is obtained on a voluntary basis for purposes of establishing the nationality of a vessel for the protections of international law or to obtain preferred mortgage financing, or both. Recreational vessels are documented primarily for the purpose of obtaining preferred mortgage financing.

The Reconciliation Act requires the Coast Guard to collect user fees for services provided under Subtitle II of Title 46, U.S. Code. These services include: Vessel documentation, vessel inspection, marine licensing, plan review and equipment approval, and foreign vessel examinations. The bulk of this analysis will describe the vessel documentation fee structure and its cost impacts on industry and the public. Because the services performed under these regulations may impact the same individuals or companies, it is necessary to briefly examine the combined costs of these user fee regulations. Although precise final cost impacts await further study, the total amount to be collected for all services provided under Subtitle II of Title 46

U.S.C. is estimated to be less than $45 million on an annual basis. This is well below the $100 million threshold that would make this regulation a major regulation. The Coast Guard has also determined that these regulations will not have a significant impact on inflation, any one industry, geographical region, or international trade.

Estimated annual costs of the user fees associated with this regulation are $4,779,000 to the recreational boating community, and $4,156,000 to the commercial vessel industry, totalling $8,935,000. User fees, albeit at lower rates than imposed in this rule, are already in place for 60 percent of vessel documentation activities, including documentation of recreational vessels, new vessel determinations, wrecked vessel determinations, and recording of bills of sale and mortgages.

Information on the number and type of discrete vessel documentation activities and the number of transactions per activity was provided by the vessel documentation officers and Marine Safety Information System (MSIS) data. The amount of time required to complete each transaction was estimated by vessel documentation officers based on the streamlined procedures detailed herein.

Program costs were computed using COMDTINST 7310.10 dated March 21, 1990, the standard rate instruction. An average billable hourly rate was determined to be $49.75 per hour, which includes costs attributable to the MSIS computer system in support of the vessel documentation program. The Coast Guard estimates these MSIS costs to be $1,578,000 per year. Total vessel documentation program costs are estimated to be $8,935,000. Projected user fee receipts for commercial vessel documentation is based on that fraction of current vessel documentation activities that are for commercial vessels. For a vessel that is primarily used for recreational purposes (greater than 50 percent), the bulk of the projected fee collections would be identified as for the documentation of a "yacht."

The cost of these regulations to a typical owner of a new commercial vessel will be approximately $157-$210. These fees are relatively insignificant costs when compared to overall commercial vessel acquisition or operating costs. Daily rental fees for commercial vessels range from several hundred to several thousand dollars. The cost of these regulations for the owner of a new yacht will be approximately $147. Therefore, yacht owners, whose vessels are typically worth from tens of thousands to millions of dollars, should be negligibly impacted by these increased fees.

The only new fees which are more costly than the Initial Documentation fee are the fees for Rebuilt and Wrecked Vessel Determinations, which apply to the commercial vessel industry and are relatively uncommon. Of the 215,000 vessels currently documented, an average of only 15 vessels annually are the subject of a rebuilding determination. The owners of those vessels will be required to pay the $450 fee for the determination. Rebuilding a vessel is often a major financial undertaking, costing tens of thousands to millions of dollars. Comparatively, the financial impact of the Rebuilt Vessel Determination fee on vessel owners will be minimal. A very small number of vessel owners, generally fewer than four per year, will have to pay the $555 fee for each Wrecked Vessel Determination. Compared to the cost associated with rehabilitating a wrecked vessel, the financial impact of this fee compared to the overall undertaking will be minimal.

Small Entities

The procedural and administrative changes in this rulemaking are largely technical amendments which the affected small entities should have little difficulty understanding or adopting into their business practices. The new user fees and changes in existing user fees reflect the cost to the Coast Guard of providing the related documentation services and, when compared to the cost or value of the vessel, are minimal. Therefore, the Coast Guard certifies under section 605(b) of the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) that this final rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

Collection of Information

This regulation contains various collection of information requirements associated with vessel documentation procedures. The Coast Guard has submitted the requirements to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for review under section 6504(h) of the Paperwork Reduction Act (44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq.), and OMB has approved them. The OMB approval number is OMB Control Number 2115-0110, displayed in § 67.14.

Federalism

The Coast Guard has analyzed this regulation in accordance with the principles and criteria contained in Executive Order 12612 and has determined that it does not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a Federalism Assessment.

Environment

The Coast Guard considered the environmental impact of this regulation and concluded that under section 2.B.2 of Commandant Instruction M16475.1B, it is categorically excluded from further environmental documentation. This regulation deals with user fees and procedural matters including reporting and recordkeeping requirements in order to obtain privileges as vessels of the United States and to record title and encumbrance instruments. These regulations are administrative in nature and clearly have no environmental impact. A Categorical Exclusion Determination is available in the docket for inspection or copying where indicated under ADDRESSES.

§ 67.31 Stock or equity interest requirements.

(a) The stock or equity interest requirements for citizenship under this subpart encompass: Title to all classes of stock; title to voting stock; and ownership of equity. An otherwise qualifying corporation or partnership may fail to meet stock or equity interest requirements because: Stock is subject to trust or fiduciary obligations in favor of non-citizens; non-citizens exercise, directly or indirectly, voting power; or non-citizens, by any means, exercise control over the entity. The applicable stock or equity interest requirement is not met if the amount of stock subject to obligations in favor of non-citizens, non-citizen voting power, or non-citizen control exceeds the percentage of the non-citizen interest permitted.

(b) For the purpose of this section, control includes an absolute right to: Direct corporate or partnership business; limit the actions of or replace the chief executive officer, a majority of the board of directors, or any general partner; direct the transfer or operations of any vessel owned by the corporation or partnership; or otherwise exercise authority over the business of the corporation or partnership. Control does not include the right to simply participate in these activities or the right to receive a financial return, e.g., interest or the equivalent of interest on a loan or other financing obligations.

(c) For purposes of meeting the stock or equity interest requirements for citizenship under this subpart where title to a vessel is held by an entity comprised, in whole or in part, of other entities which are not individuals, each entity contributing to the stock or equity interest qualifications of the entity holding title must be a citizen eligible to document vessels in its own right with the trade endorsement sought.

§ 67.33 Individual.

An individual is a citizen if native-born, naturalized, or a derivative citizen of the United States, or otherwise qualifies as a United States citizen.

§ 67.35 Partnership, association, or joint venture.

(a) A partnership is a citizen if all its general partners are citizens, and:

- (1) For the purpose of obtaining a registry or recreational endorsement, at least 50 percent of the equity interest in the partnership is owned by citizens;
- (2) For the purpose of obtaining a coastwise or Great Lakes endorsement or both, at least 75 percent of the equity interest in the partnership is owned by citizens; or
- (3) For the purpose of obtaining a fishery endorsement, more than 50 percent of the equity interest in the partnership is owned by citizens.

(b) An association is a citizen if each of its members is a citizen.

(c) A joint venture is a citizen if each of its members is a citizen.

§ 67.37 Trust.

A trust arrangement is a citizen if each of its trustees and each beneficiary with an enforceable interest in the trust is a citizen.

§ 67.39 Corporation.

(a) For the purpose of obtaining a registry or a recreational endorsement, a corporation is a citizen if:

- (1) It is incorporated under the laws of the United States or of a State;
- (2) Its chief executive officer, by whatever title, is a citizen;
- (3) Its chairman of the board of directors is a citizen; and
- (4) No more of its directors are non-citizens than a minority of the number necessary to constitute a quorum.

(b) For the purpose of obtaining a coastwise or Great Lakes endorsement or both, a corporation is a citizen if:

- (1) It meets all the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section; and
- (2) At least 75 percent of the stock interest in the corporation is owned by citizens.

(c) A corporation which does not meet the stock interest requirement of paragraph (b) of this section may qualify for limited coastwise trading privileges by meeting the requirements of part 68 of this chapter.

(d) A corporation is a citizen for the purpose of obtaining a fishery endorsement if:

- (1) It meets all the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section; and
- (2) More than 50 percent of the stock interest in the corporation including a majority of voting shares in the corporation is owned by citizens.

§ 67.41 Governmental entity.

A governmental entity is a citizen for the purpose of obtaining a vessel document if it is an entity of the Federal Government of the United States or of the government of a State as defined in § 67.3.

§ 67.43 Evidence of citizenship.

When received by the Coast Guard, a properly completed original Application for Initial Issue, Exchange, or Replacement Certificate of Documentation; or Redocumentation (form CG-1258) establishes a rebuttable presumption that the applicant is a United States citizen.

§ 67.45 Citizenship savings provision for fishing vessels.

An otherwise qualifying partnership or corporation that does not meet the requisite stock interest requirements for a fishery endorsement of §§ 67.35 or 67.39, respectively, may be eligible to obtain a fishery endorsement for a vessel if, based on evidence submitted by the owner, it is determined that prior to July 28, 1987, the vessel:

(a) Was documented under 46 U.S.C. Chapter 121 and operating as a fishing, fish processing, or fish tender vessel in the navigable waters of the United States or the Exclusive Economic Zone; or

(b) Was contracted for purchase for use as a fishing, fish processing, or fish tender vessel in the navigable waters of the United States or the Exclusive Economic Zone, if the purchase is shown by the contract or similarly reliable evidence acceptable to the Secretary or the Secretary's delegate to have been made for the purpose of using the vessel in the fisheries.

§ 67.47 Requirement for Maritime Administration approval.

(a) The following transactions, among others, require approval of the Maritime Administration in accordance with 46 CFR part 221:

(1) Placement of the vessel under foreign registry;

(2) Operation of the vessel under the authority of a foreign country; and

(3) Sale or transfer of an interest in or control of the vessel from a citizen, as defined in section 2 of the Shipping Act, 1916 (46 U.S.C. app. 802), to a person not a citizen within the meaning of section 2 of that act.

(b) A Certificate of Documentation may not be issued for a vessel which subsequent to the last issuance of a Certificate of Documentation has undergone any transaction listed in paragraph (a) of this section, even if the owner meets the citizenship requirements of this subpart, unless evidence is provided that the Maritime Administration approved the transaction.

(c) The restriction imposed by paragraph (b) of this section does not apply to a vessel identified in § 67.11(b).

Subpart D—Title Requirements for Vessel Documentation

§ 67.50 Requirement for title evidence.

The owner of a vessel must present title evidence in accordance with one of the methods specified in this subpart:

(a) When application is made for a coastwise or a Great Lakes endorsement for a vessel which has not previously been qualified for such endorsement;

(b) For initial documentation of a vessel;

(c) When the ownership of a documented vessel changes in whole or in part;

(d) When the general partners of a partnership owning a documented vessel change by addition, deletion, or substitution, without dissolution of the partnership; or

(e) When a vessel which has been deleted from documentation is returned to documentation and there has been an intervening change in ownership.

§ 67.53 Methods of establishing title.

Title to a vessel may be established through one of the following methods:

(a) Simplified method without evidence of build. The owner must produce a copy of the last registration of the vessel (State, Federal, or foreign) and evidence which establishes chain of title from that registration to the present owner.

(b) Simplified method with evidence of build. The owner must produce a copy of the last registration of the vessel (State, Federal, or foreign) and evidence which establishes chain of title from that registration to the present owner along with evidence of the facts of build in accordance with subpart F of this part.

(c) Complete chain of title, without evidence of citizenship for each entity in that chain of title. The owner must provide evidence which establishes:

(1) The facts of build in accordance with subpart F of this part; and

(2) A complete chain of title for the vessel from the person for whom the vessel was built to the present owner.

(d) Complete chain of title, with evidence of citizenship for each entity in that chain of title. The owner must provide evidence which establishes:

(1) The facts of build in accordance with subpart F of this part; and

(2) A complete chain of title for the vessel from the person for whom the vessel was built to the present owner, accompanied by competent and persuasive evidence establishing the citizenship of each entity in the chain of title.

§ 67.55 Requirement for removal from foreign registry.

The owner of a vessel must present evidence of removal of the vessel from foreign registry whenever:

(a) The owner applies for initial documentation of a vessel that has at any time been registered under the laws of a foreign country; or

(b) The owner applies for reentry into documentation of a vessel that had been registered under the laws of a foreign country since it was last documented under the laws of the United States.

§ 67.57 Extent of title evidence required for initial documentation.

(a) Vessels never registered under any system:

(1) Where a coastwise or Great Lakes endorsement is sought, the only title evidence required for a vessel being documented by the owner for whom it was built is the certification of the builder (form CG-1261) described in § 67.99. Any other applicant must present title evidence in accordance with § 67.53(d).

(2) Where a fishery endorsement is sought, the only title evidence required for a vessel being documented by the owner for whom it was built is the certification of the builder (form CG-1261) described in § 67.99. Any other applicant must present title evidence in accordance with either paragraph (c) or (d) of § 67.53.

(3) Where a registry or recreational endorsement is sought, the only title evidence required for a vessel being documented by the first owner of the vessel is the certification of the builder (form CG-1261) described in § 67.99, or a Manufacturer's Certificate of Origin. Any other applicant must also present title evidence in accordance with either paragraph (c)(2) or (d)(2) of § 67.53.

Note: Manufacturer's Certificates of Origin are sometimes used as shipping documents for vessels, and may recite as the first owner a person other than the person for which the vessel was built. Therefore, a chain of title which begins with a Certificate of Origin will be deemed incomplete.

(b) Vessels previously registered under the laws of a State or a foreign government:

(1) Where a coastwise or a Great Lakes endorsement is sought, title evidence must be presented in accordance with § 67.53(d).

(2) Where a fishery endorsement is sought, title evidence must be presented in accordance with paragraph (b), (c), or (d) of § 67.53.

(3) Where a registry or recreational endorsement is sought, title evidence must be presented in accordance with paragraph (a), (b), (c), or (d) of § 67.53.

§ 67.59 Extent of title evidence required for change in ownership of a documented vessel.

When the ownership of a documented vessel changes, in whole or in part, the applicant for documentation must present:

(a) Title evidence in accordance with subpart E of this part to reflect all ownership changes subsequent to the last issuance of a Certificate of Documentation; and

(b) Where a registry, fishery, or recreational endorsement is sought, evidence of the citizenship of all owners subsequent to the last owner for whom the vessel was documented except for a vessel:

(1) Identified in § 67.11(b); or

(2) For which the Maritime Administration has granted approval for transfer or sale under 46 CFR part 221.

(c) Where a coastwise or Great Lakes endorsement is sought, evidence establishing the citizenship of all owners subsequent to the last owner for whom the vessel was documented with a coastwise or Great Lakes endorsement, if such evidence is not already on file with the Coast Guard. If the vessel has never been documented with a coastwise or Great Lakes endorsement, evidence must be presented to establish the citizenship of each owner of the vessel for whom such evidence is not already on file with the Coast Guard.

§ 67.61 Extent of title evidence required for vessels returning to documentation.

(a) When the owner of a vessel which has been deleted from documentation applies to have the vessel returned to documentation, the owner must, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, provide evidence establishing the complete chain of title from the last owner under documentation, and citizenship evidence for all owners in that chain of title.

(b) When a vessel is returned to documentation after having been under foreign registry, the owner must provide a copy of the last foreign registry, the evidence of removal from foreign registry required by § 67.55, and evidence establishing the complete chain of title from the last owner under foreign registry. No citizenship evidence need be provided for owners in that chain of title.

(c) The owner of a vessel identified in § 67.11(b) or for which the Maritime Administration has granted approval for transfer or sale, either by written order or by general approval in 46 CFR part 221, and which was under a State or Federal registration or titling system, must provide a copy of the last registration or title, the evidence of removal from foreign registry required by § 67.55, if applicable, and evidence establishing the complete chain of title from the last owner under such registry or title. No citizenship evidence need be provided for owners in that chain of title.

Note: Although vessels returned to documentation without a complete chain of title are not eligible for coastwise or Great Lakes endorsements, this does not preclude such an endorsement if the chain of title, with citizenship evidence, is completed at a later date.

§ 67.63 Extent of title evidence required for captured, forfeited, special legislation, and wrecked vessels.

(a) In the case of a captured or forfeited vessel, the owner must provide evidence establishing the chain of title from the judicial decree of capture or decree of forfeiture, or the evidence of administrative forfeiture described in § 67.131(b). Citizenship evidence for all owners in the chain of title is required only if a coastwise or Great Lakes endorsement is sought.

(b) In the case of a vessel which is the subject of special legislation or a wrecked vessel, the owner must provide:

(1) For initial documentation of a vessel or return to documentation of a vessel deleted from documentation, a copy of the last Federal, State, or foreign registration, the evidence of removal from foreign registry required by § 67.55, if applicable, and evidence establishing the chain of title from the last registration. If a coastwise or Great Lakes endorsement is sought, the owner must present citizenship evidence for all owners in the chain of title from the grant of special legislation or the determination by the Commandant that the vessel is eligible for documentation under 46 U.S.C. app. 14.

(2) For a documented vessel, the title evidence reflecting all ownership changes subsequent to the last documented owner of record. In addition, unless the vessel qualifies for exemption under § 67.11(b) or the vessel is the subject of Maritime Administration approval for unrestricted transfer, citizenship evidence must be presented for all owners in that chain of title.

Subpart E—Acceptable Title Evidence; Waiver

§ 67.70 Original owner.

The builder's certification described in § 67.99 serves as evidence of the original owner's title to a vessel.

§ 67.73 Transfers prior to documentation.

A transfer of vessel title prior to documentation may be evidenced by:

- (a) Completion of the transfer information on the reverse of the builder's certification on form CG-1261;
- (b) Completion of the transfer information on the reverse of the Manufacturer's Certificate of Origin; or
- (c) A bill of sale which meets the criteria for filing and recording set forth in subpart P of this part.

§ 67.75 Transfers by sale or donation subsequent to documentation.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in this subpart, transfers of vessel title must be evidenced by a bill of sale which meets the criteria for filing and recording set forth in subpart P of this part. Except as otherwise provided in subpart O of this part, each bill of sale must be accompanied by a declaration of citizenship from the new owner, executed on the appropriate Maritime Administration form described in § 67.211.

(b) The bill of sale form used may be form CG-1340 or form CG-1356, as appropriate.

(c) An applicant for documentation who cannot produce required title evidence in the form of an instrument eligible for filing and recording in accordance with subpart P of this part may apply for a waiver of that requirement in accordance with the provisions of § 67.89.

§ 67.77 Passage of title by court action.

(a) When title to a vessel has passed by court action, that passage must be established by copies of the relevant court order(s) certified by an official of the court.

(b) When authority to transfer a vessel has been conferred by court action, that authority must be established by copies of the relevant court order(s) certified by an official of the court.

§ 67.79 Passage of title without court action following death of owner.

(a) When title to a vessel formerly owned in whole or in part by an individual now deceased passes without court action, an applicant for documentation must present:

(1) When title passes to a surviving joint tenant or tenants or to a tenant by the entirety, a copy of the death certificate, certified by an appropriate State official; or

(2) Where the laws of cognizant jurisdiction permit passage of title without court action, evidence of compliance with applicable State law.

(b) Passage of title subsequent to devolutions such as those described in paragraph (a) of this section, must be established in accordance with the remainder of this subpart.

§ 67.81 Passage of title in conjunction with a corporate merger or similar transaction.

When the title to a vessel has passed as the result of a corporate merger or similar transaction wherein the assets of one corporation have been transferred to another, the passage of title must be established by:

(a) Materials, such as a resolution of the board of directors or shareholders of the corporation which held title to the vessel before the transaction, which either unequivocally transfers all of the assets of the corporation or which specifically identifies the vessel as being among the assets transferred; and

(b) In jurisdictions where there is an official recognition of corporate mergers and similar transactions, a copy of such official recognition certified by the cognizant official of that jurisdiction.

§ 67.83 Passage of title by extra-judicial repossession and sale.

When title to a documented vessel has passed by reason of an extra-judicial repossession and sale, such passage must be established by:

(a) A copy of the instrument under which foreclosure was made;

(b) An affidavit from the foreclosing party setting forth the reasons for foreclosure, the chronology of foreclosure, the statute(s) under which foreclosure was made, and the steps taken to comply with the relevant instrument and statute(s);

(c) Evidence of substantial compliance with the relevant instrument and statute(s); and

(d) A bill of sale which meets the criteria for filing and recording set forth in subpart P of this part from the foreclosing party as agent for the defaulting owner(s).

§ 67.85 Change in general partners of partnership.

When the general partners of a partnership owning a documented vessel change by addition, deletion, or substitution without dissolution of the partnership, the change must be established by a written statement from a surviving general partner detailing the nature of the change.

§ 67.87 Change of legal name of owner.

(a) When the name of a corporation which owns a documented vessel changes, the corporation must present certification from the appropriate governmental agency evidencing registration of the name change.

(b) When the name of an individual who owns a documented vessel changes for any reason, competent and persuasive evidence establishing the change must be provided.

§ 67.89 Waiver of production of a bill of sale eligible for filing and recording.

(a) When the evidence of title passage required by this subpart is a bill of sale which meets the criteria for filing and recording set forth in subpart P of this part, and the applicant is unable to produce a bill of sale meeting those criteria, the applicant may request that the documentation officer at the port where application for documentation, exchange, or redocumentation is made waive that requirement.

(b) No waiver of the requirement to produce a bill of sale eligible for filing and recording may be granted unless the applicant provides:

(1) A written statement detailing the reasons why an instrument meeting the filing and recording criteria of this part cannot be obtained; and

(2) Competent and persuasive evidence of the passage of title.

§ 67.91 Passage of title pursuant to operation of State law.

When title to a documented vessel has passed by operation of State law for reasons other than those specified in this subpart, such passage must be established by:

(a) A copy of the statute permitting transfer of title to the vessel and setting forth procedures to be followed in disposing of the vessel;

(b) An affidavit from the party acting against the vessel, setting forth the basis for selling the vessel, and the steps taken to comply with the requirements of the statute under which title passes;

(c) Evidence of substantial compliance with the relevant statute(s); and

(d) A bill of sale which meets the criteria for filing and recording set forth in subpart P of this part from the acting party as agent for the owner(s) of record.

Note: State law authorizing a marina to dispose of abandoned vessels is an example of passage of title by operation of law contemplated by § 67.91.

Subpart F—Build Requirements for Vessel Documentation

§ 67.95 Requirement for determination.

Evidence that a vessel was built in the United States must be on file for any vessel for which a coastwise, Great Lakes, or fishery endorsement is sought, unless the vessel is otherwise qualified for those endorsements under subpart J of this part.

§ 67.97 United States built.

To be considered built in the United States a vessel must meet both of the following criteria:

(a) All major components of its hull and superstructure are fabricated in the United States; and

(b) The vessel is assembled entirely in the United States.

§ 67.99 Evidence of build.

(a) Evidence of the facts of build may be either a completed original form CG-1261, or other original document containing the same information, executed by a person having personal knowledge of the facts of build because that person:

(1) Constructed the vessel;

(2) Supervised the actual construction of the vessel; or

(3) Is an officer or employee of the company which built the vessel and has examined the records of the company concerning the facts of build of the vessel.

(b) A vessel owner applying for documentation must file a separate certificate from each builder involved in the construction of the vessel.

(c) A Manufacturer's Certificate of Origin is not evidence of the facts of build.

§ 67.101 Waiver of evidence of build.

(a) A vessel owner applying for documentation unable to obtain the evidence of build required by § 67.99 may apply for a waiver of that requirement to the documentation officer at the port where application for documentation is made.

(b) No waiver of the requirement in § 67.99 to produce evidence of build may be granted unless the applicant provides:

§ 67.107 System of measurement; evidence.

(a) The gross and net tonnage and dimensions of a vessel for purposes of this part are determined in accordance with 46 CFR part 69.

(b) A Certificate of Measurement issued by an authorized official is the only acceptable evidence of the gross and net tonnage of a vessel measured in accordance with subpart B, C, or D of 46 CFR part 69. A Certificate of Measurement is not issued for vessels measured under subpart E of 46 CFR part 69 since the gross and net tonnage are determined as part of the documentation process.

Subpart H—Assignments and Designations Required for Vessel Documentation

§ 67.111 Assignment of official number.

(a) The owner of a vessel must submit an Application for Initial Issue, Exchange, or Replacement Certificate of Documentation; or Redocumentation (form CG-1258) to the documentation officer at the port of record of the vessel assigned in accordance with § 67.115, or the documentation office nearest where the vessel is located, to apply for an official number for the vessel when:

Subpart I—Marking Requirements for Vessel Documentation§ 67.120 General requirement.

No Certificate of Documentation issued under this part will be deemed valid for operation of the vessel until the vessel is marked in accordance with this subpart.

§ 67.121 Official number marking requirement.

The official number of the vessel, preceded by the abbreviation "NO." must be marked in block-type Arabic numerals not less than three inches in height on some clearly visible interior structural part of the hull. The number must be permanently affixed to the vessel so that alteration, removal, or replacement would be obvious. If the official number is on a separate plate, the plate must be fastened in such a manner that its removal would normally cause some scarring of or damage to the surrounding hull area.

§ 67.123 Name and hailing port marking requirements.

(a) For vessels other than those covered in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, the name of the vessel must be marked on some clearly visible exterior part of the port and starboard bow and the stern of the vessel. (b) Once a transaction under this subpart has been initiated at a documentation office, all subsequent filings for that transaction must be made at that same documentation office.

§ 67.131 Forfeited vessels.

In addition to any other submissions required by this part, the owner of a forfeited vessel applying for a Certificate of Documentation for that vessel must submit the following:

(2) A writing setting forth the physical location of the vessel, containing a guarantee that the requesting party assumes full responsibility for all costs, liabilities, and other expenses that arise in conjunction with the services performed by the board of appraisers, and stating that at the time of documentation the vessel will be owned by a citizen of the United States.

(b) In addition to other submissions required by this part, a vessel owner applying for a Certificate of Documentation for a vessel accorded privileges by the Wrecked Vessel Statute (46 U.S.C. app. 14) must include a copy of the Commandant's determination that the vessel qualifies for documentation under the statute.

Note: The determination of the appraised salvaged value must be made by a board of three appraisers appointed by the Commandant. The board must determine that the repairs made upon the vessel are equal to three times the appraised salvage value. The determination of the appraised salvage value will include consideration of the fact that if the vessel is found in compliance with the Wrecked Vessel Statute it will attain coastwise and fishery privileges. The cost of the board must be borne by the applicant.

(b) Upon receipt of the Certificate of Documentation and prior to operation of the vessel, ensure that the vessel is marked in accordance with the requirements set forth in subpart I of this part.

Note: Issuance of endorsements on a Certificate of Documentation may be denied if the vessel owner is the subject of an outstanding civil penalty assessed by the Coast Guard.

§ 67.143 Restriction on withdrawal of application.

A vessel owner making application pursuant to § 67.141 may not withdraw that application without mortgagee consent if a mortgage has been filed against the vessel. Consent of the mortgagee is evidenced by filing a properly completed original Consent of Mortgagee to Exchange of Certificate of Documentation or Withdrawal of Application for Documentation (form CG-4593).

§ 67.145 Restrictions on exchange; requirement and procedure for mortgagee consent.

(a) A Certificate of Documentation issued to a vessel which is the subject of an outstanding mortgage recorded pursuant to subpart Q of this part or predecessor regulations, may not be exchanged for a cause arising under §§ 67.167(a) or 67.167(b) (1) through (6) without the consent of the mortgagee, except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) The provisions of paragraph (a) of this section do not apply to a vessel which is subject only to a mortgage filed or recorded before January 1, 1989, which had not attained preferred status as of that date.

(2) complying with the requirements of § 67.145, if applicable.

Note: A Certificate of Documentation is issued upon compliance with the applicable

(b) The documentation officer prepares a new Certificate of Documentation and forwards it for delivery to the vessel's next port of call. If the port of call is in the United States, the Certificate is forwarded to the nearest U.S. Coast Guard Marine Safety Office. If the port of call is in a foreign country, the Certificate is forwarded to the nearest American Consulate. The new Certificate is delivered only upon surrender of the old Certificate, which is then forwarded to the port of record of the vessel.

Department of the Interior

Fish and Wildlife Service

Coastal Barrier Improvement Act;
Completion of Boundary Modification
Process; Notice

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

Fish and Wildlife Service

Coastal Barrier Improvement Act;
Completion of Boundary Modification
ProcessAGENCY: Fish and Wildlife Service, Interior.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: The Department of the Interior, through the Fish and Wildlife Service (Service), has completed consideration of State and local government requests for minor and technical modifications to the boundaries of Coastal Barrier Resource System (System) units. It has also complied with the requests of State and local governments, and qualified organizations, to add "otherwise protected areas" under their jurisdiction to the System. This is consistent with the provisions of Section 4(e) of the Coastal Barrier Improvement Act (CBIA) (Pub. L. 101-591) and with the guidelines published in the Federal Register on June 6, 1991 (56 FR 26304-26312). The Service provided copies of correspondence requesting modifications and its responses to the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries in the House of Representatives and to the Committee on the Environment and Public Works in the Senate.

The Service's responses to requests for modifications were also provided to the appropriate official in each State, county, or equivalent jurisdiction in which a System unit recommended for modification is located. The Service submitted its preliminary responses to requested boundary modifications on April 24, 1992. The appropriate officials were to respond no later than May 30, 1992.

In addition, this notice provides information on the modification of boundaries of two areas in North Carolina and one in Virginia, as required by section 303 of Public Law 102-440, October 23, 1992.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Ms. Linda Kelsey, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Division of Habitat Conservation, 400 Arlington Square, Department of the Interior, Washington, DC 20240, (703) 358-2201.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Section 4(e)(1)(B) of the Coastal Barrier Improvement Act of 1990 (CBIA) requires the Department of the Interior to revise maps of the Coastal Barrier Resources System (System) to depict accepted minor and technical boundary modifications and election of "otherwise protected areas" to the System. This process was to be completed by November 16, 1992, with publication of those changes in the Federal Register. As required, the Fish and Wildlife Service has provided written justification for denial of requested minor and technical modifications to the appropriate officials requesting modifications. Section 303 of Public Law 102-440 requires the Department of the Interior to revise the maps of VA-60P, NC-01P and NC-05P.

Copies of the revised maps have been filed with the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, and the Committee on Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs of the House of Representatives, and the Committee on Environment and Public Works of the Senate. Copies of these same maps have been distributed to the Chief Executive Officer (or representative) of (a) each State and county (or equivalent jurisdiction) in which a revised map of a System unit is located, (b) each State coastal zone management agency in those States which have a coastal zone management plan approved and (c) each appropriate Federal agency. Copies are also available for inspection through the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service of the Department of the Interior and appropriate Regional Offices and Field Offices (see addresses in appendix A). Interested organizations and individuals may purchase System maps (including revised maps which are indicated in bold type) from the U.S. Geological Survey (see appendix B).

The prohibition on Federal assistance for new development activities, including Federal flood insurance, for new areas added to the System becomes effective on the date of publication of this notice. The boundary revisions to VA-60, NC-01 and NC-05P as required by Public Law 102-440 became effective on October 23, 1992.
